ALSACE FIGHT RAGING

Paris Announcement Tells of Fierce Hand to Hand Encounter Near Metz—New Battle
in Progress Near Neuport.

The Germans have halted the French advance designed to cut communications with the important fortress of Metz in Lorraine and isolate the German forces in the St. Mihiel region.
The official statement from Berlin says
the French lost heavily in an attack near Pont au Mousson and were repulsed. The French statement acknowledges that the Germans have retaken part of their lost trenches.

Another violent battle is in progress in Alsace in which troops were engaged in hand to hand struggles. The Berlin war office asserts that the French were driven from the heights near Sennheim.

In the east no change is reported today.

A conference was held in Paris between representatives of England, France and Russia who are reported to have discussed consideration of a joint loan of $3,000,000,000.

Heavy fighting is in progress once more along the western front. Unofficial advances from Amsterdam tell of a trench battle in Belgium between Germans and British troops which has been raging without interruption for three days, notwithstanding the rain, flooded trenches and almost impassable roads.

The war in the east has now settled down to trench warfare and has become fixed almost as rigidly as in the west.

Another British vessel has been torpedoed by a German submarine. The steamer Durward was sent to the bottom but her crew was saved.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Jan. 22.—News dispatches referring to the situation in Poland indicate that the Russian advance in the vicinity of Lomza, Russian advances are within twenty miles of the German frontier, while to the northeast the Germans have evacuated their positions which is about twenty miles from the Prussian border and due southeast of Thorn.

If the Russians follow up their success at Skempe and continue their forward movement it will give them an unbroken front in the opinion of British observers, dangerously near German territory.

The western allies are watching this region with great interest, and dispatches from Petrograd say that the Russians are pinning high hopes on this offensive thrust near the German line. Elsewhere they are planning merely to hold their own position, of course, the advance through Transylvania. The Austrians, however, appear not to have been crushed by the reverses in Buch-ovina, for the Russian advance refers to the attempted Austrian offensive. Other news dispatches tell of the movement of Austrian reinforcements aimed to check the Russian advance.

"No Gains in West."
In the western arena of the war, the battle at Soissons still rages as the only great conflict during many weeks past. There has been fighting at many points, but a trench and a few yards here and there, is all that either side has gained. If the Germans plan is a renewed general offensive or a series of concentrated attacks at some strategic point, it has not yet materialized.

The Turks claim to have arrested the Russian advance in the Caucasus but they give no details. The British press continues to assert that the proposed Turkish invasion of Egypt is doomed to failure, but it gives credence to many reports to the effect that such invasion surely will be attempted.

IS GERMANY PLANNING A NEW DRIVE ON PARIS FROM SOISSONS?

Are the Germans preparing to make another dash on Paris? During the past week there has been some heavy fighting at Soissons, where the French have sustained severe losses and have been compelled to fall back five miles. Soissons is only sixty miles from Paris.

FIELD MARSHAL VON HINDENBURG MAY TAKE COMMAND AT THE WESTERN FRONT

General von Hindenburg in Poland giving orders over a field telephone.

It is reported that in response to popular demand, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, commander of the German campaign against Russia and the popular hero of Germany, is likely to be transferred to the command of the western armies in the spring. Von Hindenburg looms as Germany's greatest general in the war thus far.

London, Jan. 22.—William Morris Hughes, the acting premier of Australia, has issued an appeal for more recruits, says the Melbourne correspondent of the Associated Press. He said in his appeal Mr. Hughes said:
"Every available man is needed for the front as soon as possible. The German power is not yet shattered and remains formidable with its strength unimpaired."

WARSHIP EXPLOSION COSTS FOUR LIVES

Accident on Santiago, Pacific Fleet Flagship, Kills Four Men and Injures Nine.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
On board U. S. Santiago, La Pas, Calif., Jan. 22.—Four men were killed and nine seriously injured Thursday afternoon on board the armed cruiser Santiago when a boiler tube blew out after a steaming trial of four hours had been completed. The dead are Oscar J. Wray, El Centro, Calif.; Ambus J. Hardee, Joplin, Mo.; Wm. F.
Elliot, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Clifford Western, Davenport, Calif. All were firemen.

The injured: Benjamin H. Tucker, R. B. Glidden, Daniel L. Varnado, Wm. H. Miller, Ernest A. Ledwith,
Chas. W. Peterson, firemen; George Olm, water tender; Emmanuel A. Shippi, seaman; and Patrick A. Marriman, coalsuper.

Immediately after the accident the cruiser left for Guaymas where she arrived at two o'clock this (Friday) morning. The Santiago is the flagship of the Pacific fleet and is in command of Captain Ashley H.
Roberts.

Report to Washington.
Washington, Jan. 22.—An official report that there has been an explosion on the cruiser Santiago, was made early today to the Navy department. It said a "list of the dead and injured" was on the way to Washington.

Rear Admiral Howard's report gave this account of the accident:
"The Santiago completed her fourth hour steaming trial, and made 21.45. Just at the completion of the trials a tube in No. 4 boiler ruptured, due to low water. No engine or machinery was damaged. A full investigation has been ordered, and proceeding to Guaymas."

CONGRESS DEBATES NATIONAL DEFENSE

concerned in the shooting last month of two American duckhunters, Smith and Dorach, of Buffalo, the first of whom was killed.

KEEP PEACE WITH U. S. PLEADS LONDON PAPER

London, Jan. 22.—"The Spectator" in a leading editorial article entitled "The Great Danger," expresses "anxiety and alarm at the way in which we are drifting toward the danger of a collision with the United States." This article speaks in praise of the good feeling toward Great Britain of many prominent Americans, but it resents deeply the "indifference, indeed carelessness, toward Great Britain and her cause shown by the government of the United States."

HILL SHOWS DEMAND FOR AMERICAN SHIPS BY TRADE INCREASE

Noted Road Magnate Declares Service
By Big Subsidies Is a Losing Game in St. Louis.
Address.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Louis, Jan. 22.—James J. Hill in a paper on "Freedom for Our Foreign Trade" submitted to the second National Foreign Trade Convention here today, said the "indispensable" condition for such freedom was adequate compensation in American ships. To carry service by big subsidies was declared, a losing game. The need of ships in America was almost as great as that of other nations for munitions of war.

"In the month of November," he said "the exports from the port of New York were $12,000,000 more than the year before. There was an increase of about 300 per cent in the exports of food products. The foreign demand must increase in direct ratio with the exhaustion of supplies in warring nations. How are these goods, which we desire to sell, and others are anxious to buy, to be carried to the overseas markets?"

"Such a slight relief as was afforded by the wise removal of the prohibition of registry for foreign-built vessels has been given. It is hardly a drop in the bucket. Up to the week ending December 26, 1914, American registry has been granted to 105 vessels hereof totaling 373,846 gross tons. This is not enough to prevent present congestion and holds out little hope for the supply of further needs."

"American cost of ship-construction is from 50 to 100 per cent higher than that abroad and according to a recent statement of Captain Robert Dollar, who operated ships in both domestic and foreign trade, it costs about $17,236 more a year to operate a ship of 3,000 tons under the American and under the British flag. These are the disadvantages under which our foreign trade labors."

"There are but two resources; one a merchant marine owned and operated by the government; the other a merchant marine provided by and for the people."

"The former just now urgently advocated, is an unwise and would be a disaster to the country. The latter certain to drag us sooner or later in-
to the European conflict, owing to the uncertain and conflicting claims of
national neutrality and the right of the private shipping interest. Private enterprise cannot possibly compete with a government which does not interest on the cost of its
ships and throws aside consideration
of profit and loss."

"What is the prospect, in this case, of economical management, and of those who operate ships in both domestic and foreign trade, it is certain to drag us sooner or later in-
to the European conflict, owing to the
uncertain and conflicting claims of
national neutrality and the right of
the private shipping interest. Private enterprise cannot possibly compete with a government which
does not interest on the cost of its
ships and throws aside consideration
of profit and loss."

"At the International Trade Conference of the Mississippi Valley and Central West, which met at Memphis last November, the following resolution was adopted:
"Resolved, that Congress be urged to enact maritime legislation looking toward placing the American shipping industry upon a basis more nearly equal with that of competing nations, thereby enabling our shipowners and ship-builders to meet the competition of other nations in the ocean carrying trade."

"The speaker, who was not a member of the committee, said that the resolution was not a moral exhortation, that it would be an insult to large classes of people, and would have a tendency to create a riot and breach of peace and that no license has been obtained to run the affairs of this nature. He said the whole problem would be used to prevent it if necessary."

BLACKMAILER LOOKS WITH POSSE FOR SELF

Eau Claire Boy Spied With Sheriff For

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 22.—Jesse Hogue of Strum was arrested last night at that village on charge of attempting to blackmail M. P. Skogstad, cashier of the First State Bank of that Hogue conspired with another man to demand $500 be left at a certain point under penalty of death. He notified the sheriff at Whitehall, and a posse was formed which watched the place, but no one came. It now appears that young Hogue was a member of the sheriff's posse that night.

SCARCITY OF WILD GAME CAUSES WOLVES TO TRAVEL INTO SOUTHERN COUNTIES

Chippewa Falls, Jan. 22.—Wolves are so plentiful in Chippewa county that the county clerk is averaging from six to seven wolf scalp bound-

IMMIGRATION BILL IS DEBATED TODAY BEFORE PRESIDENT

President Hears Extensive Arguments on Literacy Test in White House Room Today.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 22.—Five hundred men and women, social workers, labor leaders and publicists, crowded the historic East room of the White House today at the public hearing before President Wilson on the immigration bill.

Speakers in favor of the measure contended the literacy test would improve the quality of immigration.
Those opposed to it declared that it was no test of quality whatever, and that many aliens who would become desirable would be kept out simply by an inability to read and write.

J. M. Patton of the Farmers' National Congress and Farmers' National Union, opened the hearing for the advocates of the bill and spoke for the all organizations qualified to represent the farmers of the country. He said the farmers wanted further restrictions against immigration before any of distributing laborers.

Prof. E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin declared "exclusion cannot be at Ellis Island, but must be in the minds of the possible immigrant."
The literacy test was a good one, he said, because its requirements were easily understood abroad.

Vm. M. Clark, who said he represented various organizations of railroad employees numbering 350,000, spoke in favor of the test. Prof. F.
Fairchild of Yale University also spoke for it, because, he said, "it was highly American to require education." He contended the test would encourage education in Europe.

Charles Edward Russell, a New York socialist, also opposed the bill because it was unfair and could not be enforced. "If the bill were passed," he said, "the right of political asylum would be abolished."
When Miss Grace Abbott of Chicago said the literacy test was really based on religious and racial prejudice she was loudly applauded. The Rev. John Sobieszczyk, representing the Polish American Catholic union, Miss Emily Wojcik of Chicago, and the Polish Women's Alliance of America, also opposed the bill.

Various times recently the president has indicated strongly that he would veto the bill.
S. A. Dennis, formerly of Princeton University, said he represented 24,000 members of religious and patriotic organizations in New Jersey and New York, also favored the test. Among those opposing the test were Representative More of Pennsylvania and David A. Laurie of Boston, and Cohn of New Jersey, representing the Independent Order of King Solomon.

PUT RUMLEY COMPANY'S PROPERTY IN WISCONSIN IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 22.—The property of the Rumley Products company for the western district of Wisconsin was placed under the receivership of Paul P. Mount, an Indianapolis attorney in the district court here late yesterday afternoon.
This is an auxiliary suit, the principal proceeding having been started at Indianapolis last week.

Rumley Products company has branch houses in Madison and La Crosse, owning property holdings aggregating $34,000. The company is a farming machinery manufacturing concern. Attorney M. B. Olbrich of this city appeared in the interest of the appointment of the receiver and petitioner. It is stated, is intended to lift the company out of its financial diminution and Judge A. J. Anderson of the United States district court of Indianapolis has instructed the receiver to continue the operation of the plant until further orders from the court.

SHIP PURCHASE ACT AIDS GERMAN CAUSE ACCORDING TO LODGE

MASSACHUSETTS SENATOR
STARTS REPUBLICAN FIL-LUSTER ON ADMINIS-TRATION PLAN.

VIOLATES NEUTRALITY

Declares That Forty Million Dollars
Would Be Turned Over to German Ship Owners If Measure Carries.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Republicans and democrats in the senate faced each other again today in their compromising fight over the passage of the administration ship purchase bill.
Advocates of the bill, aroused by the determined republican opposition, set firmly to work to put the measure through, despite the formidable lineup against it.

Begin G. O. P. Filibuster.
Republicans settled down to a renewal of the filibustering tactics with the avowed intention of fighting the bill until March 4, or in an extra session called on or before the committee report.

Attributing to the administration the intention to buy German ships interned in American ports if the ship purchase bill is passed, Senator Lodge today attacked the bill, saying it was measure "would bring us within measurable distance of war with England alone, but with France, Russia and Japan."

He quoted from the house committee hearings to show that Secretary McAdoo has "practically admitted that the purpose of the bill was to buy the German ships" laid up in Boston and New York harbor, and that the purpose, Senator Lodge suggested, the impression now general could be corrected by an amendment, which he said had already been voted down in committee, to delete the government from such purposes.

"To buy the German ships interned in these ports and relieve their owners of a vast amount of daily expense in caring for them and of having to them thirty or forty millions of money belonging to the American people," said Senator Lodge, would be a great and direct subsidy to one of the belligerents in the war now on.
It would be an unequal act and very readily might be construed as a hostile act and actual breach of neutrality."

Leading the fight for the passage of the government ship purchase bill is Senator Duncan W. Fletcher of Florida. He is Fletcher who filed the majority report of the committee on commerce, favorable to the bill, in the senate.

In the report was incorporated a letter from Secretary of the Commerce Redfield, in which the Commerce analyzes the shipping situation, and also advocates speedy enactment into law of the bill which will give the government authority to purchase an ocean transportation corporation.

Views of Secretary.
"We cannot wait long for the process of evolving out of the tangled web of complicating views of the interests, which interests in the aggregate are infinitely less than the importance of the subject to the free flow of the world's commerce," said Secretary Redfield in his letter. "We have paid since September 1 our whole floating indebtedness abroad in
gold, and it looks as if the month
of December alone, even with our moving slowly, would show a favorable balance on merchandise transactions of $1,000,000,000."

In the committee report, after describing the hazards and difficulties of transportation of American commerce since the war, it is declared:
"We have been subjected to the free flow of American commerce, and the Secretary Redfield in his letter. "We have paid since September 1 our whole
floating indebtedness abroad in
gold, and it looks as if the month
of December alone, even with our
moving slowly, would show a favorable balance on merchandise transactions of $1,000,000,000."

By reason of this control by others of our national transportation facilities we are subjected to risks to their primary interests and to their risks, if experience of the war call for destruction by the enemy of one of the nations whose ships we use, the destruction takes place. With the destruction of the ships, American commerce goes to the bottom."

The report explains in detail the enormous financial losses which have been incurred since the war, mentioning particularly the fact that the tonnage rate from Cape Town to Tre-nson has been multiplied ten times over the rate of a year ago and says:
"As this report is written, shipowners, chiefly foreigners, are reaping the harvest of profits at the cost of American commerce."

The danger to absolute stoppage of American commerce is also pointed out in the report.
The members of the committee feeling in the report is "the control by us and in the interests of America by a whole of our ocean transportation." It is recommended that control be maintained as to ocean routes and the character of transportation to be maintained.

Before Stock Taking The Bargain Season

This is the month in which the thrifty shopper scans the newspaper advertising closely.
It is the time just before stock taking when merchants are anxious to clean house.
It is better business to sell small lots of merchandise at a loss than to carry them over another year.
Cash can be used—dead
stocks can't be used—so it is the custom of the season to make this month a clearance season.
Therefore the advertising columns of The Gazette hold more than their usual interest.

MIKE GIBBONS WINS OVER JIMMY CLABBY IN MILWAUKEE BOUT

St. Paul "Phantom" Has Wide Margin Over Champion Clabby in No-Decision Ten-Round Battle.

Wisconsin's no-decision boxing bout between Mike Gibbons and Jimmy Clabby, the middle-weight title of the world today. In ten rounds of scientific, hard and dazzling fighting before the largest crowd that has seen a fight in the Cream City for a year, Gibbons outboxed Clabby and out-generalized Champion Clabby, and was master in all of the rounds except in the first and final session.

Gibbons showed the ability of a champion. He had the all-around fighting skills, having amazing speed, boxing ability, with a hard wallop in either hand and his famed ability at feinting was ever present. The St. Paul man had Clabby baffled at his feints and well-timed left swings to the head missed by a foot. Occasionally Clabby caught Gibbons with ripping body punches and left hooks at long range, but it was like hitting a man of steel with a lead pipe. Mike used a left hook that had no equal in the sport. He had no fast right-cross, his solid punches not traveling over eighteen inches. But they had power behind them, and it was not without reason that Clabby showed the effects of the punches in his mouth starting bleeding in the fourth.

Clabby took the first round and in the fourth the battle was even. The fifth went to the St. Paul man and his best margin was made in the sixth. A hard upper cut caught Clabby on the point of the jaw, causing the champion's knees to buckle and make him rush for cover. Referee Stott had a hard time to break them and when they were apart Gibbons threw his right hand and Clabby was hit with speed and timing that brought the six thousand fans to their feet, waiting for the climax. Clabby was knocked out before the referee could stop the storm of punches and he staggered over the crisis. Again in the eighth an upper-cut started trouble for Clabby, and though he fought bravely and with a desperate effort to tide over the crisis, he was knocked out and bewildering attack which came from all sides.

The ninth was a warm round. Clabby showed a little more fight. Champion came out in the tenth and final round with a resolve to retrieve honors. He shot a left hook to the body which, it is claimed, struck Clabby dangerously near the line, but Gibbons made no protest even though he was hurt badly.

A return battle in New York is being sought by Gotham promoters, while Gibbons is anxious for a twenty-round decision battle with the champion, which would bring him the title if he repeated that victory. Gibbons is a former champion in a longer fight and admits he did not get started soon enough last night. About twenty thousand dollars were taken in the gate.

FOUR GUN CLUBS FORM AN INTER-CITY LEAGUE AT BELOIT MEETING

A federation of four gun clubs was effected at the meeting of the representatives of the gun clubs of Rockford, Capron, Beloit and Janesville at the meeting held at Beloit. The federation will hold a series of eight shoot during the coming summer. The first inter-city tournament to be held on March 9th at Rockford. Two tournaments will be held in each of the cities, each about a month apart. The high gun in each of the tournaments will be awarded an attractive prize, and the clubs finishing in the first three positions will receive prizes. The officers elected were as follows: Alexander Vance of Capron, president; J. C. Rodd of Beloit, secretary; J. C. Buchholz, Janesville, the executive committee named was composed of C. B. Helm of Rockford, J. C. Short of Beloit, Alexander Vance of Capron and William E. Lawyer of Janesville.

GUNN AND KERKOFF ROLL 995 IN DOUBLES LAST NIGHT AT MILLER'S TOURNEY

Good form in bowling was shown for the first time last evening at the Miller's alley in the doubles, when Gunn and Kerkoff toppled 996 pins in their attempt to beat the 995 mark set Tuesday night by Robbins and Baumann and Quinn hit the 1000 mark while Neher and Grove rolled 1000. Incidentally the young man is not peevish because he was not continued as manager, for admitted that he lacks experience. He day, saying: "I never wanted to be manager, for I think I am too inexperienced and young for such a position. In fact, I had to be coaxed to take the acting management of the Yankees last September. There's a whole lot of difficult things to manage a big league club, and to fill it right requires more experience than I have had. Bill Donovan is the right man for the job, I think, and I wish him success."

The motto of Josh Devore, according to George Stallings, is: "I would rather be the mascot with a winner than a bench warmer with a loser." Josh is to a certain extent a mascot for the Boston Braves. He gets into the game only rarely, yet Stallings would be loath to let him go. All around the big leagues Josh is known as a lucky player because in several ticklish situations he has shown an ability to come through with a telling hit or a great catch.

Second Baseman George Cutshaw, who is said to be again flirting with the Gilmores, last winter signed a contract with the Brooklyn club, so that his contract has still another year to run. "Little George" is probably figuring upon taking advantage of the ten-day clause in his contract.

Walter Johnson is said to be greatly worried. Baseball fans are interested in an announcement that Johnson would issue a public statement within a few days explaining that he now doesn't know whether he belongs in the Federal league or to the American league. He is quoted as saying that Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh and Clarke Griffith of Washington persuaded him into believing that he belongs in Washington. Since then he has heard arguments to the contrary that put him up in the air. He will welcome court action to decide which he belongs, he is said to have declared to friends.

The system of retrenchment to be instituted in the management of C. J. Somers' affairs, including the release of the majority of the baseball scouts which were employed to dig up players for the Naps and Bears last summer. Six such scouts were employed during the 1914 season, but only two will be retained for the approaching campaign. The two to stick are Billy Doyle, discoverer of Fletcher Jones, William Todrow and Carter of the Naps-Bears, and Baumgardner and Wellman of the Browns, and Charley Frank, former manager of the New Orleans club.

Wild Bill Donovan, new manager of the New York Yankees, can't get over the high salaries they are paid the ball players these days. Bill recalls the early days of his pitching career when the limit for players was $2,400. Few and far between were the players who received more than the limit. Win Mercer, the old Washington pitching star, was one of the few. Wins salary at present was $3,500, or $1,100 over the limit. Bill says he used to stand in open-eyed wonderment every time he saw Mercer to think that he was receiving that enormous amount of money. He went so far as to figure Wins' pay out by the month, week, day, hour, minute and second. It was almost inconceivable to Wild Bill's way of thinking—then now—well, it's different now. Salaries of $3,500 are easily the rule instead of the exception, while some of the pay masters run above $10,000, and a few of them between $15,000 and $20,000.

Mattie McIntyre, the ex-American leaguer, is expected to develop a strong team for Lincoln, Neb., in the Western league the coming season. For one thing, McIntyre himself promises to be an available asset. McIntyre will try out a big squad of candidates this spring.

REAL MUSICAL TREAT OFFERED BY QUARTETTE

A musical offering that is worthy of note is the Wherry Lewis quartette which is filling an engagement at the Apollo this week in connection with a vaudeville program. The quartette is composed of vocal and instrumental artists of distinctive ability. There is a mezzo-soprano, a cellist, a pianist, and a violinist and together they give a real musical treat.

HIGHS CONFIDENT OF DEFEATING MONROE

Invasers Are Faster Team Than Lake Mills Proved to Be—Methodists and Presbyterians in Opener.

The Monroe high school basketball team are a faster team of players than the Lake Mills five proved to be last Saturday night. This is the statement of several critics who have seen Monroe play on their own floor. Janesville well knows what Monroe can do on their own floor. Last winter the Bower City five journeyed to the Green county seat and had all they could do to win from the cheesemakers.

Monroe has practically the same team as last year, and is out for the state title. They are, however, out of the southeastern district, and consequently the game tonight will not count in favor of either school. Monroe outweighs the local men by a safe margin.

Janesville is confident of winning, because a victory tonight, they believe, will place them in the rank of better teams, teams which very likely will be the contenders in the elimination battles that are to come. The team will line up as follows: Richards, Jr., Capt. Stickney, rf; Rau, c; Stewart, lg; Dearborn, rg; Wierick, sub forward; Jones, sub center.

The Methodist will appear tonight against the Presbyterians in the preliminary conflict. Capt. Williams of the former, with a victory in his belt, is out after a second win. Coach Francis Blair believes he has a team composed of winners, with McVicar and McCulloch as two star players. The Methodists, under the direction of D. D. Manross, have added Brownell to their team, and will play with strength tonight. This contest will commence at seven-thirty o'clock, with the big contest an hour later.

HAS WILLARD CHANGE OF DEFEATING "JACK"?

Some Say Johnson Has Gone Back, While Others Claim Willard Has Not Enough Nerve.

(By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, Jan. 22.—Jess Willard may grab the championship crown from Jack Johnson late of Chicago and still later Parisian bouncer at their little meeting at Juarez, Mex., in March, but there are doubters galore.

The Kansas cowboy, the experts are now busy pointing out, has the ability to take punishment, and a medium-sized punch. The chief objection seems to be that he lacks ring experience and that his attitude in the squared circle is entirely too mild. Willard is now accused, of lacking nerve, but many critics complain that

BIG JESS WILLARD DIDN'T KILL HIM

Eddie McGoorty.

This picture of Eddie McGoorty was taken in Chicago a few days ago when the Oshkosh middleweight donned the padded mitts with Jess Willard in a few boxing setts. The Oshkosh boy was clever enough to keep out of range or dodge the sledgehammer blows of the Kansan, who expects to take Jack Johnson's crown away from him on March 6.

BUCKEYE CONVICTS HAVE HOME RULE

Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—Prisoners at the Ohio penitentiary now have "home rule" government. This innovation marks the latest move in Warden E. E. Thomas' plan to get in closer touch with the convicts.

Included in the "home rule" plan is the appointment of six representatives, one from each division of the cell blocks. Each representative is subject to "recall" by the prisoners. These representatives are known as "councilmen." Each will be allowed to visit all prisoners in his "ward" during the evenings, a freedom denied other convicts. In this way, Warden Thomas, believes, they will keep in touch with the wants of their "constituents," hear their complaints and note improvement they believe would be to the benefit of the prisoners. These representatives will meet with the warden once every two weeks to discuss matters which have come to their attention. They are expected to make such suggestions about which they complain, or to try to retention of any suggestions. They will have no power to vote that these suggestions be put into practice.

It is expected that a lunch wagon can safely be stationed at crossroads, at a reasonable distance in the rear of the firing line, and that lunch may be done to restore the vitality of the men that has been lowered by the rigors of winter weather.

SHEBOYGAN "TRUST" AIMS AN ATTACK AT CHEESE PRODUCERS

Dairy Board Files Protest With Gov. Philipp Refuting Charges of Public Affairs Board.

(By Associated Press.)
Sheboygan, Wis., Jan. 22.—The Sheboygan Dairy Board, the so-called "cheese trust," today filed a protest with Governor Philipp against certain statements made by the state board of public affairs, and petitioned the governor to cause a thorough investigation to be made.

This is a step in the fight between the Dairy Board and the Cheese Producers Federation, which three years ago by ex-Senator Henry Krumb of Plymouth, assisted by Dr. Charles McCarthy, of the University of Wisconsin, it is the first public action taken since the seven years old and Plymouth dairy boards requested the federal government to cause an investigation to be made into the alleged "trust."

The petition of the local board was signed by T. H. Peruch, O. A. Danrow and Gus W. Schiereck, committee, and unanimously adopted, follow: "To Hon. E. L. Philipp, Governor of Wisconsin.

"The Sheboygan Dairy Board in convention assembled, believing that public opinion is being misdirected by statements made by the Board of Public Affairs, whereby the claim to have raised the price of cheese in Wisconsin through the establishment of the Cheese Selling Association.

"And, whereas, careful investigation of the facts prove conclusively to the contrary, as can be seen in the appended prices, which in reality show that our markets have been lower the past year, compared with other markets of the world, where in other years our market lead the world in prices.

"Therefore, be it resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that these misdirected efforts on the part of the Board of Public Affairs have become a real menace to the cheese industry in the state of Wisconsin; first, by creating dissension and enmity between the producers of our factories, often on other than economical lines; second, by withdrawing its products from competitive public sale as now conducted by the established dairy board.

"And be it further resolved, That we petition the governor to carefully review true conditions and to give the cheese producers and dairy interests a square deal, which has not been offered in the activities on the part of the Board of Public Affairs, and we will be pleased at any time to assist in an impartial hearing of the material facts involved in this important matter."

"Appended to the petition is a table for June and July, 1913 and 1914 quoting prices for cheese on the Plymouth, Wis., Utica and Watertown, N. Y. Dairy Boards for eight weeks in an attempt to bear out the statement contained in the second paragraph of the resolutions as given above.

EMBARGOING WHEAT.

With the report on the winter wheat crop in the United States showing a larger acreage than ever, numerous investigations taking place to probe the present high price of the commodity numerous propositions for checking the outflow of wheat are now in the air. The estimable president of the National Housewives League telegraphed the president "to take drastic measures at once to protect your people." A member of congress also announces that he will introduce a bill for an embargo on wheat exports, saying that in two months the present rate of exports will exhaust our surplus.

The department of agriculture reported 72,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand at the beginning of the new crop year—July 1, 1914. The new crop is officially estimated at 891,000,000 bushels of wheat. That is the supply.

Approximately 600,000,000 bushels

will be required for flour and seed.

About 175,000,000 bushels have been exported. That leaves 198,000,000 bushels. We always keep a reserve on hand for insurance against crop failure. In the past five years it has averaged 50,000,000 bushels, although there have been years when it was much less. But the same average could leave over 100,000,000 bushels

which could be spared for export.

July 1 sees our wheat harvest in full swing, but it begins in May in Texas, Argentina, which harvests in December and January, has not been shipping much, but undoubtedly will ship more before midsummer. India put an embargo on exports for a limited time, but is now approaching her harvest time. Russia has shipped practically none of her crop. Should the Dardanelles be cleared, she will have wheat to ship. The situation does not look so desperate as to call for "drastic" action at this time.

On the other hand, interference with the natural processes of trade brings results that the reformers do not count upon. Raise a cry of "Fire," and a panic ensues. Shout from the household that wheat is scarce, and flour goes up. It is the innocent public, not the fool at the fire alarm, who is trampled on.

LABOR AND CAPITAL.

Editorial writers who seek to explain the present lack of employment for thousands of workmen give as one of their reasons that labor and capital are not working in accord. That is, that organized labor and organized capital do not hitch, as the word goes,

and consequently organized capital is reticent about investing money in these troublesome times. Labor and capital, however, have been placed on the same plane at last by a court decision and we shall see how it works out. Leslie's Weekly says:

"The boycott of a non-union firm by a labor union is illegal and payment must be made for any damages that may be occasioned. This is the unanimous decision of the supreme court of the United States in the famous

Danbury case. In 1902, the United

Hatters' union and American Federation of Labor sought to unionize all the hat factories in the country and declared a boycott against those that held out. One of the boycotted firms sued to recover $30,000 damages and the court awards the triple amount provided by the anti-trust law, which

with counsel fees and costs brings the total up to $225,000. This is the penalty of the strike and boycott against a manufacturing firm.

The burden falls upon 135 strikers and under the Connecticut law, which imposes individual liability for organized action, the homes, bank savings and other property of the offenders have been attached and will have to be sold to pay the fine, unless the United Hatters of North America and the American Federation of Labor contribute the necessary amount. The penalty is heavy and it seems as if it ought to be paid by those who instigated

the workmen into a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, without knowledge of the serious consequences. The exemption clause of the Clayton bill does not excuse members of unions from responsibility for acts of their unions in which they acquiesce.

"The unanimous decision of the supreme court settles two things: one,

the right of labor to seek a free market, and secondly the equality before the law and capital and labor. The decision seems to be harsh as applied to the Danbury strikers, but the court has been harsher in disrupting great business enterprises involving the loss of millions of dollars to innocent shareholders, and serious losses to thousands of industrious employees, who had little thought of the far-reaching and destructive consequences of the anti-trust legislation they had been led to favor."

BUSY DAYS.

These are busy days down in Washington for President Wilson and his cabinet advisors. They are finding it plainer and plainer each day that the members of congress, whom they thought so safely within their control, are not the same men that passed the tariff measure by a good deal. A change has come over the face of the country and men who were enthusiastic believers in the democratic politics two years ago are now doubting their expediency when put into actual operation. The army of unemployed throughout the country, the high cost of living and closed factories all tell their own story. It has reacted on congress. The election of last November showed the trend of public sentiment and it is not so easy to fool the congressmen who sought only spoils for his constituents as it was. Consequently the shipping bill is having hard sledding and President Wilson is having considerable worry as to the outcome. It is only a matter of time that may be expected later and it is not pleasing to contemplate. The European war and the Mexican trouble have been obstacles hard to overcome and cool heads and wise advisors have been needed. It is one thing to preach a doctrine and another to place it in operation and have it a success.
Bryan is all right as a lecturer, but his work as secretary of state has been far from satisfactory. Secretary Daniels has talked too much and Secretary Garrison is the subject of severe criticism. Consequently these are busy days in Washington preparing for the inevitable republican landslide two years from now, and at the same time trying to harvest the hay crop between showers of disapproval of the congressional spell-binders.

When Madison refused the offer of a library site free of charge and a city library free of charge from their fellow townsmen, the late Francis Ogden, they little dreamed he would die in far-off Texas, leaving enough wills to make the lawyers of the next generation or two rich in trying to settle it. Mr. Ogden also objected to being arrested for running disorderly hotel and shook the dirt of Madison

STATE HARNES MAKERS INVITED TO JANESVILLE

At the convention of the Wisconsin Harnes Makers which closed Thursday in Madison an invitation was extended by John C. Nichols of this city to hold their next annual convention in Janesville. It was decided, however, to hold the 1916 meeting in Milwaukee but Janesville will have a majority of claims for the 1917 meeting.

NORMAL EAR IS NOT AFFECTED BY FIRING OF HEAVY GUN SOUNDS

Berlin, Jan. 22.—The normal ear is not affected in any noticeable degree by the noises of even the heaviest artillery, according to conclusions based upon a long study of army aviators by a Berlin ear specialist. Army aviators observed for a long period by this specialist, none exhibited any objective symptoms, and only four complained of subjective injuries, mainly "ringing in the ears." In investigations covering a whole year, only one case of a burst eardrum was found.

The ordinary recruit, who serves only two years in the army, is not exposed to the noise of the heavy artillery, but rarely incurs any injury to his ears. Officers who have served many years, not infrequently have the service with chronic partial deafness or ringing in the ears. Investigation appears to show, however, that these sufferers did not have normal organs when they enlisted.

JANESVILLE GIRL WINS HONOR IN CONTEST

Miss Marcia Rogan of this city, who has been teaching in the stenographic department of the Beloit Business College since the first of September, has achieved an honor as a teacher that will be of interest to her friends here.

Miss Rogan ranked second in the teachers' contest in stenography, which has been running for the past three months and which was open to several hundred stenotype teachers throughout the United States.

The standing of each teacher was obtained by averaging the standings of her students' examinations. These examinations were given and graded carefully. Miss Rogan's average for the three months was 99.8%.

LORD KITCHENER ALLOWS SOLDIER TO SEE MOTHER RESPECTING HER DESIRE

(Correspondence Associated Press.)
London, Jan. 22.—An instance of the human qualities of Lord Kitchener is related in Sunday papers, where a soldier was sent from the front at the government's expense to attend his dying mother.

The woman's one desire was to see her five sons, who are in the army. Four of whom were in the English training camps and obtained leaves of absence through the offices of the Salvation Army. But the mother longed to see the youngest, who was serving in Flanders. Lord Kitchener was communicated with. The lad thereupon received a seven days' furlough, with ration and expense money, and arrived in time to see his mother before she died.

Gave Sphinx the Double O.

"Yes," said the nonchalant Mr. Wombat. "I was in Egypt." "I suppose you stood awestruck before the grand and solemn sphinx." "Well, I gave it the once over."

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

TAKING IT EASY.

A very delicate, but very strenuous woman who has a larger home than she needs, was asked by a placid minded neighbor why she didn't shut off the lights and go to bed. "Oh I couldn't," she said. "I would make the room so dark that I couldn't see the door." "I would make the room so dark that I couldn't see the door." "I would make the room so dark that I couldn't see the door."

RUTH CAMERON

How many thousands of women would be made happier if more women would learn that it is possible to acquire the art of letting things slide. And how many tens of thousands of lives would be prolonged?

Another woman of this same strenuously conscientious type was told by her doctor in the middle of the house-cleaning season that she simply must stop at once and do nothing but rest for six months.

"But doctor," she pleaded, "in that peculiar way in which we all plead with our doctors as if their orders were arbitrary ideas of their own and could be changed and made more lenient if only they chose, 'but, doctor, just let me finish my housecleaning first, I've only two more rooms to do.'"

"Not another room," he retorted with that disagreeable abruptness that doctors sometimes show.

"But, doctor, I'd rest so much easier." "Then I'll rest with you," he said. "It is really nothing to me. Certainly you may finish cleaning your house if you wish. You are right, you would unquestionably rest easier. And," he added significantly, "very much longer too."

Resting Easy Above the Ground Or—resting easy in their graves today who would be alive, ground in spite of having things slide.

To tire oneself to the exhaustion point getting things done just so, or to fret oneself to the exhaustion point because one cannot get things done just so, these are the Scylla and Charybdis of the modern woman, only unlike dangers, the mind control of the woman who does what she can without detriment to her health and refuses to fret herself about the rest.

NEW CANE FAD IS GAINING HEADWAY

Miss Marguerite Arbuckle and her cane.

A new fad has been introduced at Palm Beach, where the winter season is now on in full swing. The women there are carrying canes, and they say the fad will spread. Miss Marguerite Arbuckle of New York, who is one of the fashionables at the Florida winter resort, takes kindly to the innovation.

the high waist line of an Empire gown with similar pleated ruffles around the elbow sleeves and as a ruff effect around the round neck. Envelope chemises still strive for general favor but after the first fad novelty of them has worn off they are found neither as comfortable nor as attractive as they promised. Hence envelope chemises will envelope but few feminine figure this Spring.

When it comes to a question of corsets it's going to take the ladies Heaven bless 'em, some time to get on to their curves to say nothing of getting into them. In some ways it's going to be a long winter for the camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for some of its girls to get into a 1915 model Irene Papillon or Goodwin these curvaceous days.

ACTRESS WINNING OUT IN HER SUIT

Adele Blood.

Adele Blood, the actress, won a point in her suit for divorce in New York last week when the referee found in her favor and reported that her husband's charges against her had not been proved. The referee will consider the case further.

JAPANESE MAXIMS USED TO INSPIRE TROOPS IN FIGHTING AGAINST GERMANS

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Tokyo, Dec. 22.—Over 200,000 replies were received by a Japanese newspaper when it asked its readers to send maxims to stimulate and cheer the army at Tsingtau. This was during the siege of the German fortress, but the newspaper has not the contributions translated into English and French and will send them to the allied troops fighting in Europe.

you load your gun with its projectile, load your mind with patriotic spirit.

The third prize: "The pain of a wound in the back is doubled by shame."

"One who treads the path of humanity is always safe and strong."

"Value spirit above bull."

"One victory begets another."

"The hour of triumph is the hour of danger."

"War is truly enjoyed by those who shrink not from death."

"Vanquish your enemy and banish your danger."

"The strongest kick at the heels of their adversaries and the weak at their heels."

"Light as air craft let your action be, and steady as heavy guns your mind."

"When you are on the battlefield put forth your best endeavors thinking that every five minutes is your last."

"Fear of the enemy springs from self-distrust."

"Fear is but a step to defeat."

"Boldness often conquers gunfire."

"Meet death boldly and you can reach a place of safety."

EVEN GERMAN CHILDREN TAUGHT ABOUT WAR MOVES THROUGH CIRCULAR LETTER.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Berlin, Jan. 21.—The German educational authorities are taking pains to teach children the history of the war as fast as history is made. The Prussian Ministry of Education has just sent a circular letter of instructions to the school inspectors pointing out that the hour devoted to teaching history must be devoted principally to giving pupils a clear idea of the course and development of "the Great War."

RICOCCHETING BULLETS CAUSE HORRIBLE WOUNDS.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Paris, Jan. 21.—The remarkable wounds that are caused by ricocheting bullets and secondary projectiles, and are being discovered by surgeons in ever-increasing variety are commented on by Henri de Varigny, in the Debat.

Many are deformed bullets frequently found in wounds, but with them such unusual substances as bits of bone from the bodies of other men, metals and medals and money, pieces of cloth and other articles.

The presence of these extraneous substances in wounds invariably means that they have been caused by ricocheting bullets. An officer injured by a bullet in the forehead of one of his men, one man was struck by a stone that had been projected by a bullet.

In another case a part of one man's jaw was picked out of another man's body wound; still another soldier lost the sight of his eye by being struck with a fellow soldier's tooth.

Some reports of findings supposedly bullet wounds such as usual objects as buttons, nails, fragments of eye glasses, pieces of cloth, slivers of wood and bone, eyelets, scraps of leather and coins.

In one case a projectile struck a man's pocket and glanced off without even scratching the skin, the bullet were found in his coat, and from the first soldier's uniform and 20 deformed pieces of gold that were forced out of the pocket.

DESTRUCTION OF COAL MINES IN FRANCE IS EFFECTIVE.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) London, Jan. 21.—France is now compelled to call on England for coal which was formerly mined in the north of France. Practically all the mines in that district have either been destroyed by the German artillery or are being operated by Germans. At Lievin and Courrières the German army is carrying on extensive mining operations and producing great quantities of coal which are shipped into Belgium for the use of the German military forces.

France is no longer able to draw coal from Mons and Charleroi, which formerly supplied large quantities for exportation. Consequently the residents of Northern France are largely dependent upon English mines for coal, which has become very scarce. Frequently towns and villages near the fighting line are entirely without coal for a week.

This works great hardship on hospitals sadly in need of heat for the hundreds of thousands of wounded, and the sick soldiers of the allies who are being cared for in French towns.

German Coffee Cake

Made Without Yeast
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

There is no warm bread quite as appropriate for Sunday morning breakfast as German Coffee Cake, yet it is seldom made by housewives who do not bake their own bread. If K.C. double raise Baking Powder is used it will be just as good as raised with yeast and it will have the further advantage of being fresh and warm. Save this recipe and try it next Sunday.

K C German Coffee Cake

Two and one-fourth cups sifted flour; 1 level teaspoonful K C Baking Powder; 1 level teaspoonful salt; 2 tablespoonsful melted butter; 2 tablespoonsful sugar; 1 egg; milk.

Sift dry ingredients together, beat the egg, add milk and butter to the egg to make one and one-quarter cups; stir all together with inverted spoon to a stiff batter. Turn into biscuit pan and spread even. Brush top lightly with melted butter. Sprinkle sugar and ground cinnamon over the top. Bake in moderate oven.

Dutch Apple Cake or Prune Kuchen can be made with this same batter by covering the top with pared and sliced apples, or cooked prunes with the pits removed, skin sides down. Dredge with sugar and cinnamon the same as for Coffee Cake.

"The Cook's Book" contains 90 just such delicious recipes. You can secure a copy free by sending the colored certificate packed in 25-cent cans of K C Baking Powder to the Jacques Mig. Co., Chicago, being sure to write your name and address plainly.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Would you please print a recipe for hard home-made soap, a sufficient quantity for about fifty bars.

(2) Also would you like a simple recipe for mince-meat.

(3) As my daughter and I are planning to give a valentine party, we would like suggestions as to decorations, games and some novel way of serving refreshments.

A HOUSEWIFE.
(1) Dissolve a half young can of concentrated lye in one quart of water and let it get hot, then cool it. Take six pounds of fat, free from salt and melt it; then gradually pour the lye in the fat, stir until it is thoroughly mixed, then when it becomes smooth and creamy looking pour into molds to harden.

(2) Mince-meat—Four pounds tart apples, one pound suet, three pounds raisins, two pounds currants, one-half pound citron chopped fine, one pound brown sugar, one quart cooking molasses, two quarts sweet cider, one pint boiled cider, one tablespoon each of salt, pepper, mace, cloves and allspice; four tablespoons cinnamon, two grated nutmegs, one pint brandy. Heat through thoroughly, then cover tightly in crock and set in cool place. Will keep all winter.

(3) Decorations for Valentine Party—Decorate either in red or pink; cut hearts and string them; fashion over curtains, holding them up with black paper arrows.

Have large heart in center of table surrounded by small ones. On this have a cupid standing. String three or five hearts together for shade for candles; make bon-bon dishes of cardboard cut heart shape; festoon edge of cloth with strings of hearts held up with pretty way to choose partners for the table is to take cardboard hearts, write some love motto on each, then cut in two so that no heart is cut the same way. Put the halves in two different baskets. Let the boys choose from one, the girls from the other.

Games—Cut out a heart from a big turnip; coor it red. Tie a strong cord around the middle, leaving several strands of cord to pass over two small wooden pulleys, which can be rigged up and down on a door. Give the guests a long meat spear and let them take turns spearing the heart as it flashes past on the pulley. Keep score.

No Valentine party is complete without a contest at writing original valentines. Have the writers sign their own names and have the girls' valentines in one pile, the boys' in another. Blindfold each one separately and lead him to the proper pile to select one. Then the valentine is read aloud, name and all, or the names can be scuffed and have the others guess who wrote it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I got some stains on my new blue silk poplin dress which I think are coffee stains. Have rubbed with gasoline which did much good, but didn't take the whole stain out. What can I do to get it all off?

(2) If a father takes out his first know is one composed of equal parts of alcohol and chloroform; or chloroform alone is very good; to remove stains from delicate fabrics.

(2) If the child were a son he would have to take out naturalization papers before being able to vote.

(3) Designing is one form of art. However, when you call a man an artist you usually mean that he never excel in either branch of the art without natural talent, but he might learn to do mediocre work.

NEW FASHION HINTS BY MARGARET MASON

Even the Night-Gown is Guiltless of Sleeves, Aping the Sleeveless Evening Garb.

(By Margaret Mason.)
Behold, the banished petticoat has now returned to grace. And ornaments fair nether limbs. With crepe de chine and lace. Quite like the prodigal's return. The petticoat will be because the fatted calves are. Prepared for it you see.

New York, Jan. 22.—Whether an undershirt cast out by fashion becomes an outcast or an outside garment is the question. The real point in the lingerie forecast for 1915 is that article of wearing apparel, more noticeable by its absence than anything else the last season or two, has now returned in all the fullness of its pristine glory and also all the fullness of circular cut. Naturally with the full flaring and pleated outside skirt of the mode the undershirt can no longer be denied. Hence the circular petticoats of 1915 now makes

Maté A Good Drink For Railroad Men

Probably no class of men thinks more highly of Maté, the popular drink of Argentina and other South American nations, than do railroad employees. Illustrations in a recent South American magazine showed an engine cab with the fireman pouring a cup of Maté for the engineer in one scene, and in the other both were drinking their favorite beverage. Underneath in Spanish were the lines: "While the engineer is constantly on the lookout at his post, his companion, the fireman, prepares Engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, telegraphers and other railroad workers all appreciate Maté. It gives steady nerves, prevents fatigue and is a perfect digestant. The effect of irregular and unsatisfactory meals is offset by Maté. It can be consumed and quickly prepared in the engine, caboose or out of the way station. All that is required is hot water and Maté and you have a drink that helps to satisfy hunger, removes depression and invigorates.

its bow before fair femininity. Snug and tight fitting about the hips it breaks into frothy ripples of lace around its circular flange, cascades of chiffon flounces, shimmering pleated silk and satin ruffles, coquettish lovers' wreaths and nosegays of tiny ribbon flowers add to its charms. All in such delectable shades and materials as to make every woman go around in circles for a circular petticoat.

Apeing the fashion of the sleeveless evening gown a night-gown for a little later in the evening wear comes absolutely guileless of a sleeve. It is an Empire model of flesh colored crepe de chine and straps of the same material edged with ruffle of point de esprit hold it over the shoulders.

As a direct antithesis of sleeveless nightie is the new model with the round neck like the sensible and modest night habiliments of our stranny's youth. Where theirs were net or heavy cast from linen and cambric however these latter day day confections are evolved from sheerest tissue batiste and nainsook which prove that being under cover doesn't necessarily mean being out of sight.

The tailored nightgowns of crepe de chine are very popular owing to their easy laundry characteristics as well as their chaste beauty. They are usually cut on Empire lines and homestitching around the low neck and short sleeves.

While we haven't taken to mowen age nighties as yet this long waited effect is being shown with killing effect. In fact the newest combination is absolutely indispensable, the successful set of the mowen age new old Empire waistline of course waistline are worn.

As a trimming for combinations, petticoats and in fact all lingerie footings is very good. It is as practical from a laundry point of view as lace and is much more novel and attractive as well as possessing the desirable effect of softening the flesh nainsook set consisting of a combination of the puffed footing finished with a bon run, and edged with a tiny ruffle of the footing. The panties are finished with a deep puffing and ruffing around the finished edge.

Truth be so long banished as in from undergarments as long as the light and clinging lines were in vogue, are now found on every jaunty bit of lingerie and often in the most unexpected places. A favorite spot is as a sort of short peplum below

Foley's Money and Tar Stops those Night Coughs

They Are Weakening, and Disturb the Whole Family.

Coughs and colds usually grow worse at night. Keep a bottle of FOLEY'S MONEY and TAR handy. Use it freely—there is nothing to it if this can possibly harm you. But it clears the throat of phlegm and stops the coughing and tickling, and keeps the raw inflamed surface.

GEA D. COBBS, Many, La., says: "My wife was troubled with a terrible cough, and we could get nothing to relieve her until I used FOLEY'S MONEY and TAR. She was very weak and had a bad cough. Before the contents of this bottle were used, the cough had entirely disappeared and her health was completely restored."

PHIL DESORMEAUX, Schafer, Mich., writes: "Last winter I could not sleep at night on account of a bad cough. It did not bother me during the day, but started up at bedtime and kept me from sleeping. I was very weak and had a bad cough. I started using FOLEY'S MONEY and TAR and was greatly pleased to find that the cough left me entirely, my appetite improved, and I slept soundly at night."

Good druggists are glad to sell FOLEY'S MONEY and TAR because it is so effective in relieving the customer and contains no opiates. Refuse substitutes.

Insects as Food.

The stag beetle, a wood-boring insect, is used in some parts of the world, especially in the mountains of Italy, as a food. An Australian species of butterfly, called by the bushmen "buging," is a standard article of food there. They are caught clinging to the trees in the Bugony mountains, and great fires are made literally to cook them off. They are raked from the embers and ground into a pulp or flour for cake baking.

Had Lung Trouble and Expected to Die

The many recoveries brought about by Dr. Ketterer's Alternative have attracted wide attention. Read this case:

Mrs. H. C. Ketterer, W. Va., writes: "I was taken sick in November, 1908. I grew steadily worse. Had two convulsions. The doctor said the fever had affected my lungs and that my case was hopeless. Only gave me two months to live. My physician had tried most all kinds of treatment and none did me any good. So he asked my husband if he objected to him trying a proprietary medicine. I began using Alternative. I was in bed from November 30, 1908, until February 22, 1909, and was thought dying several times. Today I am healthier and stronger than ever." (Abbreviated.)

THE MASTER KEY

By John Fleming Wilson

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT FOR THIS PAPER MADE WITH THE UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
(Copyright, 1914, by John Fleming Wilson.)

His conversation had attracted Ruth's attention, and she and John both looked back. John smiled faintly, but Ruth was indignant.

"Tom did that on purpose," she said. "I'm ashamed of him."

How it happened only Sir Donald could have told, but within three minutes he was exchanging remarks about the scenery with them all. "And there's an awfully jolly bit just over the other way," he said to Ruth.

The ice was broken, and Ruth promptly accepted the implied invitation to see this specially lovely scene and Sir Donald led the way, talking with her. After an instant's hesitation John and Kane followed.

The acquaintance thus made was destined to have a great bearing on the lives of both Ruth and John. It had ripened into a genuine liking on Ruth's part before the dance that night was over.

The next morning John and Tom met Ruth walking with Sir Donald about the hotel grounds, and the young man could not help showing in both voice and manner that he was little pleased that Ruth should have so suddenly taken up with a stranger.

"Remember, she's only a girl," Tom warned him, feeling his mood. "She's been brought up in the mountains, and she's as friendly as a pup. I don't like the way the man puts petticoats on his feet and I'm used to being looked at with two eyes, but Ruth is all right. You must remember that young as she is and inexperienced, she has a good lot of common sense."

"I suppose it's foolish of me," John answered. "But I'm used to activity, and this dawdling about doesn't suit me and that makes me generally cross and unreasonable. If I only knew what Wilkerson was doing! If Everett would only come!"

The wish was fulfilled that afternoon when George Everett turned up and was warmly greeted by both Kane and Ruth. After a few words he asked for Ruth.

"You can see that she's all right," John answered quietly, pointing to her as she came up the steps with Sir Donald. Both were in tennis garb, and Ruth was delightfully flushed.

Sir Donald made a few pleasant remarks and then excused himself. His quick senses told him that Everett had come on business and that he would be one too many.

"I don't know that I have anything new and startling to tell you," Everett told Ruth in answer to her question. "I know a dozen places where I can raise the money to finance your mine, but we must have the deeds, papers and surveys first. And they're gone. I understand."

"Yes," Dorrell replied bitterly. "I suppose Wilkerson has them. I ought to have been on his trail long ago."

Everett glanced at Ruth and saw the discouragement on her face. He went quickly on: "However, I've made temporary arrangements which will relieve you of all trouble for the present. Miss Gallon. I'll talk over the business details with John and Tom Kane."

He brightened and laid one hand affectionately on John's arm. "I knew everything would come out all right when John took hold," she said softly. For two days Harry Wilkerson worked steadily and secretly in his room. At last his task was done.

"No one can ever prove that deed himself," Wilkerson said triumphantly. "And it makes me the owner of the 'Master Key' mine, Jean. And, once in charge, I'll make as both worth millions."

She shrank back at the fame in his gaze upon her.

"Now, what are you going to do?" she demanded, attempting to bring the conversation back into business channels.

He bit his nails savagely. "Drake is out all right," he told her. "You see, Kane didn't turn up to prosecute the case, and they turned him loose. What do you say to my wiring him to go and take charge of the mine while we decide just what to do? He can see what's going on and warn us."

"Dorr and the rest are still at Beverly Hills," she inquired.

"Sure!" he said scornfully. "They're tying up with some blooded Britisher they think has money. They figure on getting him to finance them. I reckon. And I happen to know that Sir Donald couldn't finance anybody. We needn't worry about that."

Mrs. Darnell remained in thoughtful silence awhile and then agreed to the suggestion. Wilkerson immediately wrote the message:

Charles Drake, San Francisco, Cal.:
Go to Silent Valley at once and take charge of "Master Key" mine until you hear further from me. Am wiring Tubbs, engineer, to this effect.

HARRY WILKERSON.

When he had sent this and a message to Tubbs he resumed his gloating contemplation of his forged deeds. He did not see the look of burning scorn on Jean's face as she left the room.

"Why must I always have to use fools?" she murmured bitterly. "A lovely pair—Wilkerson and Drake!"

Drake did not hesitate when he received Wilkerson's telegram. He took the next train for Silent Valley and on arrival there procured a rig and drove to the mine.

On his arrival he was dismayed to see that no work was being done. The machinery was idle, and the miners were loafing about the streets or gathered in little sullen groups. They eyed him curiously, but when he asked for Tubbs they made no comment nor asked any questions.

Following their directions, he soon found himself on the porch of what had been John Dorr's house. He knocked, and there was shuffling of heavy boots; then the door opened, and an unshaven, bloated faced man asked him gruffly what he wanted.

Drake produced Wilkerson's wire, and instantly the engineer showed relief.

"Come in! Come in!" he said. "Come in and have a drink!"

The interior of the cabin showed that Bill Tubbs had apparently been merely camping out in his new quarters without regard to the decencies. But Drake was not squeamish after his long trip and shared a drink with his host. A few words served to put the situation before him.

"There ain't no money to pay the men; the store's closed; the cook shanty ain't running; Wilkerson is away; Dorr hasn't turned up with the money he promised, and I'm just kind of sitting on the lid while the pot boils. I'm mighty glad to see you. Maybe you can do something with these fellows. I've done my best, and I can't do any more."

The words were hardly out of his mouth before there was the noise of boots on the porch, and Tubbs smiled in sickly fashion.

"I guess they spotted you right off," he said.

"What do they want?" demanded Drake as there came a pounding on the door.

Two miners entered, and Tubbs introduced them to Drake.

"This is the new boss, boys," he said. "Who sent you here?" was the first question asked.

"Wilkerson," responded Drake. "Humph!"

"I'm just here to take charge temporarily," Drake went on hastily, not liking the ugly tone of the man's voice.

The other man took this information and after digesting it said, "Going to start up and pay wages?"

"I'm not acquainted with the situation yet," was the evasive reply. "I'll go over things with Mr. Tubbs tonight, and then in the morning I'll see what is to be done."

"The first thing is to give us money and food," was the curt answer. The men stamped out, leaving Drake to look at Tubbs in some dismay.

The engineer was so relieved at having some one else to bear the burden of responsibility that he refused to be worried.

"Have another drink, partner," he said familiarly, "and forget it till tomorrow."

After a very poor meal which Tubbs scraped up the two sat down and smoked. Tubbs' tongue gradually loosened under the influence of many more drinks, and before 10 o'clock brought up a warning moon Drake knew a great deal that made him uncomfortable.

He resolved to shift the burden to Wilkerson's shoulders as quickly as possible.

The next morning did not bring cheer. His head ached from the fumes of Bill Tubbs' whisky, and the chill of the mountain air was not dissipated by a cold breeze. And before the sun had risen above the peak of the mountain the miners had approached him with questions.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Battle in the Mine.

OR an hour or so Drake equivocated and tried to postpone action. But it was made plain to him that he could not avoid action. The starving men were in no humor for words. They demanded food and wages.

At last he saw that he must do something immediately. He called some of the leaders into the office and with apparent frankness told them he had known nothing of the situation and that he felt sure Wilkerson was unaware of it.

"What are you going to do?" came the demand.

"This," replied Drake, writing rapidly. He showed them the message: Harry Wilkerson, Los Angeles, Cal.: Come to mine at once. Trouble is brewing. DRAKE.

"Will that bring him?" demanded one of them coldly.

"It will. Now who will take it and send it?"

Two men volunteered to take old Tom Kane's burro and make the trip. "And while you're in Silent Valley," Drake said, yielding to a sudden inspiration, "take this $20 and get some grub for the camp."

"There's still some looked up in the cook house," said another. "It's old Tom Kane's lookout, so we don't exactly feel like taking it."

Drake turned to Tubbs quickly. "Distribute the food as far as it will go," he said.

Tubbs looked suddenly serious. "I guess you better leave that to me," he said in a low voice. "I know where it will do the most good." He winked slyly.

Meantime John Dorr, Everett and Tom Kane were spending long hours in discussing what was to be done to save the "Master Key" to Ruth. Tom once more went over the exact situation at the mine and asserted that unless prompt measures were taken not only would there be actual distress, but likely rioting.

"You know some of the worst ones hang with Wilkerson," he said grimly, "and they might at any time take it into their heads to do a little dynamiting. Dynamiting is mighty dangerous stuff around several thousand dollars' worth of machinery, and if they blew up the workings there wouldn't be any mine left, you see."

"I see," said Everett at last. "Not having the papers, I can't put this deal through the way I want to eventually. But something must be done on the spot."

"In the way of money?" added Kane harshly.

"Precisely," Everett assented with all cheerfulness. "Now I'm going to loan John Dorr here $5,000 today for the 'Master Key' mine. Then?"

John shook his head. "That isn't business-like," he protested.

Everett fixed his keen eyes on him. "Any reason why I shouldn't loan money to Miss Ruth Gallon's manager and guardian? Any reason why you, looking after her interests, should refuse help in fixing up her affairs?"

Dorr flushed. "I didn't mean it that way. It seems as if I kind of messed things up myself, and I—I thought I might get 'em set right by myself."

"You called on me, and I'm the doctor," said Everett authoritatively. He pulled out his wallet and commenced counting out bills. "I came prepared for this, for I thought there might be an emergency."

"But who will take charge of it? Who will go to the mine?"

The broker laughed at him. "Not you. You'd be in a fight in three minutes, specially if Wilkerson turned up. Tom Kane is our man." He turned on the old man abruptly. "Will you take this money and go?"

The old cook stared at the crisp bills and then at Dorr. "I ain't handled paper worth that much lately," he remarked. "But if you want me to go in there and feed them people and get 'em back to work and keep things going till John can fix things up here I'll go."

On his way to the mine Harry Wilkerson's courage, newly fired by a last conversation with Jean Darnell, commenced to ebb.

Drake and Tubbs received him with unaffected relief. A few words sufficed to make the status of affairs plain. Tubbs looked at his superior with strained anxiety in his bleared eyes. Dull and sodden with liquor as he was, he understood perfectly that everything depended on the next few days. The engineer had lived in mining camps and on the desert all his life, and he knew the passions engendered by the arid mountains and the remorseless desert. What would Wilkerson do? Was he strong enough to handle these men who were ready for anything, even to bloodshed if aroused?

Wilkerson had lost his sense of fear oddly enough. As he had come into the camp, a dozen miners had recognized him and scowled. He had felt their hatred, and it fed the man's sinister passion to do harm, to hurt, to destroy. Now he faced Drake and Tubbs arrogantly.

"It won't be long till these chaps find out who's the boss," he said. With a significant look at Drake he pulled out the forged deeds and handed them to Tubbs.

"Those mean that I'm legally the owner of the 'Master Key' mine," he announced.

RESINOL STOPS SKIN TORMENTS

How This Wonderful Ointment Ends Itching and Heals Skin Eruptions.

The soothing, healing medication in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap penetrates every tiny pore of the skin, clears it of impurities, and stops itching instantly. Resinol speedily heals eczema, rashes, ringworm, and other eruptions, and clears away disgusting pimples and blackheads, when other treatments prove a waste of time and money.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved so wonderfully successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other doctors all over the country for more than eighteen years.

No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment (50c. and $1.), and Resinol Soap (25c.), but for trial size, free, write to Dept. KK, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Look for the blue package and avoid worthless substitutes.

Pimples? Well, Don't Be!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights. Cleanse the blood, the bowels and the liver with Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the successful substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with Olive Oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. Ask druggists.

STATE INSTITUTIONS
WANT TWO MILLIONS
FOR NEXT BIENNIAL

Board of Control's Estimates Increased $300,000 Over Amount Expended in Last Period.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 22.—The budget of the state board of control for the eleven state charitable and penal institutions, sent to the governor and to the joint finance committee of the legislature this week, suggests an appropriation of $2,101,735.48 for the next biennium. This is an increase of approximately $300,000 over the amount expended in the last period. During the fiscal year 1913, it cost the state $1,801,107.13, and in 1914 $1,901,112.22, a total of $3,702,219.35 for the two years. During 1915, however, the hospital for the criminal insane was not in operation and credit was not given for about $115,000 worth of products raised at the various institutions, returns from which went into the general fund.

|-------------------------------|-------------|
| State hospital | 360,000 |
| Northern hospital | 360,000 |
| School for the deaf | 139,162 |
| School for the blind | 126,000 |
| Industrial school for boys | 180,000 |
| State prison | 273,000 |
| State public school | 115,000 |
| Home for feeble minded | 360,000 |
| State reformatory | 163,000 |
| State tuberculosis sanatorium | 250,000 |
| Hospital for criminal insane | 102,680 |
| Total | $2,553,913 |

Operation and maintenance are current expenses that must be met to keep the institution running. Capital account is improvements. Principal improvements approved by the board are the erection of additional buildings at the Northern hospital at Oshkosh, a new cell wing at Waupun, and a complete new wing at the hospital for the criminal insane. This budget does not take into consideration the amount that may be necessary to operate the women's reformatory, whose erection has just been started at Taycheedah, nor does it include the operation of a hospital for feeble minded at Union Grove. The report suggests a large appropriation for operating the state tuberculosis camp at Tomahawk Lake, and the erection of a tuberculosis sanatorium, similar to the one at Waupun, in northern Wisconsin. It these latter items are augmented the budget will be materially increased over that of two years ago. That the finance committee may have complete information on this subject the approved budget of the board has just been filed with it and Governor Philipp has appointed a legislative committee of six members to visit all of the institutions to check up on their needs.

BUT NINE MORE DAYS
TO PAY YOUR TAXES

Nine days more in which to pay taxes. The total amount of taxes collected by City Treasurer G. W. Muenich amounts to $75,359.87, and the tax levy is $22,000.00, leaving a total of $142,359.87 to be collected before the end of the month. As January closes on Sunday, Saturday, the 20th, will be the last day in which the taxes can be paid without the two per cent penalty which is imposed on and after February first. The city levy and specialties listed in the tax rolls amounted to $161,558.40, the state levy, $27,647.45, and the county, $30,702.45. About 1,600 receipts have been issued, showing that over half of the tax payers have made payments. Those paying the largest taxes make payments at the last day, holding the money until the last moment for interest. A total of $4,144.10 in cash has been collected for income taxes.

HEAR ARTILLERY FIRE
25 MILES FROM BATTLE

Geneva, Jan. 22.—Scientists are endeavoring to explain the peculiar phenomena by which the artillery fire of the armies fighting near the Swiss border can be plainly heard in the Geneva Alps, while between there are zones of silence fully 25 miles wide. The cannonading in Southern Alsace can be heard with great distinctness near the frontier on the Swiss side, then for some distance it can be heard at all, while on the Jungfrau and other peaks it is so plain that it seems to come from some point far inside the frontier.

CONSTANTINOPLE IS DESCRIBED VIVIDLY

National Geographic Society Cites Revolution of 1908 and the Big Change in City.
During the period beginning with the capture of Constantinople, and ending a few decades thereafter, the Golden Age of Turkish dominion dawned and began to decline. Constantinople crowned its conqueror's life, as it has remained the chief jewel won by Turkish arms; and, to the Ottoman is a tremendous test trophy of his former victor, the vantage point of his oriental world upon the continent of Europe, he won away from him and brought back with him in the sphere of his power west again. The life which developed in this city since the possession of the Turk, dating from 1454, is the subject of a paper prepared by H. G. Dwight for the National Geographic Society.

mediaval; not wholly Asiatic, nor yet wholly European; rather, it is a confusing mixture of the old and the new, of the east and the west. The great city, the writer continues, is an aggregation of villages rather than an expressive whole. It does not assimilate the people who come to dwell in it, but each tribe and race lives in a section apart, speaking its own language, wearing its native tracts, and adhering strongly to its native customs. How the stranger will live in Constantinople is dependent upon the circumstances of his nationality. All visitors, however, must share somewhat in its eastern atmosphere. In this connection Mr. Dwight explains:

The stranger shall not be amazed when he discovers that his street has no name and his house no number, for the real system on which the addresses of Constantinople are organized is that of quarters. For one, live in such quarters, and such a village of the quarter of Candle Goes Not Out. Find that quarter and someone in it will be able to find me, if he feel so disposed. "Practically all the work of the city is done by outsiders, and each kind of work is done chiefly by men from a certain 'country.' So it is that the men who sell ice cream in the streets are Albanians, from the region of Uskub; and the layers of vegetables are Mohammedan Albanians of the south; and the railroad navvies are Christian Albanians from the same region; that both men and women are Kurds; that street porters are Kurds; and that Minor Turks, according to the kind of load they carry; that most boatmen are from the Black Sea coast, and so indefinitely."

RAGGED REFUGEES FROM ALL PARTS OF EUROPE NOW STRUGGLING IN NICE

Nice, Jan. 22.—Notwithstanding the absence this winter of the customary throng of Germans and Austrians who come to Nice for the season, as well as hundreds of Americans, there have been more people here than at present. But it is a different throng. The big hotels are closed, as are the smart shops that used to attract the season's visitors and their money, and also all of the gay places. The well dressed, fashionable patrons of the resort are gone; in their place have come ragged refugees from all over Europe. The Nice known to Americans has all but vanished, and the dirty, ugly, commercial, eastern side of the city has become congested with thousands of soldiers recuperating from wounds and illness, and with other thousands of civilians who have been driven from their homes in Belgium and the Franco-Belgian frontier. The soldiers in their chamois, dragons and uniforms of the only splotch of color in the otherwise dull and drab city, and Nice's ordinary occupation of making merry has become that of watching for war bulletins. Inside the newspaper offices are posted photographs of many of the citizens who have fallen in battle, decorated with wreaths and flowers. Nice will have its usual carnival, but it will be subdued, with little more than the already people are at work on the winter form of another King Carnival who will wear a German helmet with upturned nose, and faces and who will be burned with the usual ceremony at the beginning of Lent.

Detroit Auto Manufacturer Guarantees to Take Prison Inmates and Make Man of Every One.
New York, Jan. 22.—Henry Ford, Detroit, millionaire manufacturer of automobiles, will guarantee to take every convict out of Sing Sing prison and make a man out of him, so he testified before the United States commission on industrial relations, which is investigating the great philanthropic foundations of the country and cause of industrial unrest. On a capitalization of $2,000,000 shared by eight men, the Ford Automobile Company last year made a profit of $25,000,000, according to Mr. Ford. He thought the opportunity for young men to rise in life was much better now than in his own youth. He said there had been an increase in efficiency of 15 to 20 per cent since the inauguration of the $5 a day minimum wage and profit sharing plan recently inaugurated in the Ford plant. Standard Remedy For Many Homes

AT MYERS THEATRE.
McIntyre and Heath will be the attraction at Myers Theatre Monday evening, January 25th, in John Cort's massive production of the successful musical novelty, "The Ham Tree," which is one of the greatest laughing successes this country has ever known. The comedians have no equals in the delineation of quaint negro characters, and are funnier than ever in their career. Manager Cort has this season surrounded his stars with an excellent company, which includes a great singing and dancing chorus of American beauties, as a special feature a team of thirty of America's greatest clog, jig, soft-shoe and breakdown dancing girls will be introduced. "The Ham Tree" is a notable play, not only because of its departure from beaten paths in musical productions, but from a standpoint of scenery, costumes and equipment. The large cast of principals will include some of the leading musical comedy favorites.

AT MYERS THEATRE.
A refined western vaudeville bill is announced for this week-end, starting tonight, consisting of Jennings, Jewell and Barlowe, presenting an act replete with refined comedy and good singing, entitled "The Done, the Dutchman and the Girl." Davies and Romanelli present a hand balancing act which is said to be the acme of athletic artistry. Gilbert, Loefer, known as "The man with three voices," will be an additional attraction. The regular Universal motion picture program will also be shown.

AT THE APOLLO.
Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, coming, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who has been in the public mind for years, and because of whom one man met his death and another has been incarcerated in jail, prisons and asylums of two countries in spite of the spending of a family fortune to free him, will be seen in Janesville next Wednesday at the Apollo in the five act Lubin masterpiece, "Threads of Destiny," a story of Russian life. With her is her son Russell William Thaw, who will play his own little part in the drama. Reservation of seats is already being made.

GOWNS OF CRINOLINE DAYS WILL BE SUMMER FASHION
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, Jan. 22.—Full skirts, reinforced and made non-transparent by heavy lining, are to be a feature of next summer's fashion, in place of the recent scant and semi-transparent garments. This was announced today in the style bulletin of the Fashion Art League of America, which declared that the gowns of the old crinoline days were being approached step by step.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD
Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

The Natural History of Sin

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY
Dean of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Genesis 3:1-7.
In the opening verses of the third chapter of Genesis we have what might be called the natural history of sin.

1. Its Origin.
"Now, the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made. And he said unto the woman—'The origin of sin is as far as the record goes. But, of course, there is more than the serpent, as we know not only from his intelligence and reason- ing powers and faculty of speech, but from the definite testimony of Scrip- ture which identifies him with the devil and Satan (Rev. 12:9, 20:2). There are many in these days who say that there is no devil nor Satan, but the wise understand and are gov- erned by the word of God in this matter. Read especially Ephesians 6:12."

2. Its Nature. "And he said unto the woman, 'Yea, hath God said, 'ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?' The denial of God's word is the essence of all sin. When Satan employed the interrogation point in this case, it was equivalent to say- ing, 'God hath not spoken anything, and if he hath done so, who cares?' Is not this, in the last analysis, what every sin amounts to? Is it not de- claring that we have no authorita- tive revelation of the divine will, and if we have, 'Who is the Almighty that we should serve him?' Nor is this the conviction and the boast chiefly of our unregenerate civiliza- tion, but the teaching of some so- called pulpits under the light of a ra- tionalistic theology. Speaking of this theology, one of its prominent expo- nents recently said, 'While recogniz- ing the Bible as a unique record of religious experience, it handles it as freely and as critically as it would any other book.' This is what ex- plains the lawlessness characterizing all classes of society today, and which will continue to characterize them un- til the lawless one himself has been revealed."

3. Its Object. "God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then ye shall be as God, knowing good and evil." Aye! there's the rub! If the nature of sin is the denial of God's word, the object of it is the debase- ment of God altogether. It was by pride that Satan himself fell, think- ing the godhead a prize to be grasped at, and it was by pride in the same direction that he dragged man down after him. The reason d'etre of sin, so far as the race is conscious of it, is the deification of humanity. When at the end of this age the lawless one shall be revealed, he will be found sitting in the temple of God, showing that he himself is God (II Thes. 2:4). But who is the lawless one? He is simply humanity deified in the con- crete. And the trend of the false the- ology just referred to is in this di- rection. Its starting point is belief in the immanence of God and the es- sential oneness of God and man. It believes there is no real distinction between humanity and deity, and that our being is the same as God's. How much this sounds like an echo from the garden of Eden!

4. Its Method. "When the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eye, and a tree to be desired to make one wise—' The method of sin is threefold. I John 2:16 describes it as "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life." It was along this line that the second Adam was tempted as well as the first (Luke 4:1-13), and it is along this line that Satan works with all of us. He cares not whether he takes us with a coarse sieve or a fine one, if only he takes us. Some are over- come through the lower and baser ap- petites of the body, the lust of the flesh. Others are of a finer grade, though still coarse, and are overcome by the vain glory of the world, its spar- kle and beauty, its wealth and luxury, its fame and power, the lust of the eye. But there is a third class, the finest of all, over whom the flesh and the world have little power, and with whom the pride of life is the exalta- tion of their own reason above the revelation of God. These affect to point out a new way to attain unto highness that men seek, a new kind of and a new approach unto right- eousness is the desideratum they have before them. They are philosophers and scientists it may be; they are reformers and religionists, some are honest and sincere in what they teach, and clean and upright in their lives. They fall from the high pinna- cle, but their end is the same, and that of those who fell with them.

May God keep us true to the Bible and his revealed word, and true to Jesus Christ as the only and official Saviour of our souls.

Gideon and the Three Hundred.

(The Story.)
The Hebrew Church had an experience in catacombs as well as the Christians of the Middle Ages. The oppression of the Midianites drove them to the device of carving grooves in the mountains and corridors onto which like-like dwellings opened, dimly lighted with "cave-dwellers" and "cave-dwellers." The Christian Church was ground beneath the earth by the iron heel of Roman despotism, and that without cause. But the Hebrew Church, richly deserved its addition because of its black apostasy. It was "following greedily in the way of Baal." The generation which had seen the splendid deliverance of Deborah and Barak was still alive. But these lust- rous characters and their various deeds were already forgotten, and the land was full of altars to the "Sons of Belial." The wanton groves of the "Sons of Belial" were the "Sons of Belial." At length, after seven years, the apostate Hebrews grew weary of raising harvests only to see them burned and trampled by the "Sons of Belial." These exiles in mountain dens sighed for their happy homes in the luxuriant valleys. Their hearts were broken at sight of their sons slain and their daughters married to the "Sons of Belial." They cry "Enough!" to God's punitive providence. Instantly Jeho- vah prepared for their deliverance.

Gideon, a "man of war," was Israel's deliverer in this great emer- gency, was humble and self-deprecating. When called he cried, "Where- with shall I save Israel?" The as- king of a sign was an avowal of Gideon's humility. It did not indicate doubts of God, but of self. He called for it because he thought himself unequal to the task indicated and outlined. He would fain deter- mine whether his visitor was angel or man by putting a meal before him. If an angel as Gideon believed him, he would eat. So the savory food is spread upon rock, the travel- er drawing near, however, the travel- er touches the stone with his staff. Straightway an inspiring and signifi- cant message is wrought. Flat rock becomes a holy altar, and what was proffered as banquet becomes a whole burnt offering. Now Gideon is filled with fear by the very sign which he has solicited. The flame which consumes the offering is the "Sons of Belial" of the Divine presence. Doubtless he remembered how God appeared to Abraham under symbol of a smoking furnace and a burning lamp. That momentous time, when upon him the consciousness that he had been speaking not with a mere angel, but with Jehovah's self, was vey self. The words which God spoke to Moses, "Thou canst not see my face and live," had passed into a proverb. Having as he supposed that no living man is permitted to see his face, he rushes to the conclusion he must die. But Gideon had like Jacob, only seen an assumed, not the real, presence of God. Quickly and mercifully he was permitted to hear as he reconnoitered the enemy by night, he was further encouraged in his extremely exacting task. Now came the double shifting of the petty army of Israel, then so in- adequate. The process reduced thirty- two regiments to three companies. This paltry band had a ridiculous armament—each a pitcher, a torch, and a horn. But under Gideon's art- ful manipulation these strange weap- ons were invincible. The firing torch suddenly uncovered, the inex- plicable crash of the crashing poi- ntery, the trumpet blast, the utter- ance of those awe-inspiring names of Jehovah and his captain, Gideon—throw one hundred and twenty regiments into complete panic. Each Midianite becomes his fellow's foe. The remnants of that proud army, broken and wrecked, are hotly pur- sued. Israel's deliverance is com- plete. With bowed heads the con- fession is devoutly made that the arm of "the Lord hath done it."

The Teacher's Lantern.
The ideal reformer begins by re- forming himself. He must first make kindlingwood out of his own dearest idol. "The road to the hearts of the congregation is over the ruins of the minister's own 'Baal.'" The real Church is still "little flock." Its movements are much im- peded by the members who are with- out it. The Church should rid itself of non-attending, non- contributing nonentities. The con- viction deepens that the Church would be more efficient if she were not so numerous. Providence permitted Gideon to hear what an enemy thought of him. It put a new heart in him. Would the minister be equally encouraged if it could overhear the talk of the world's cynic? Gideon's conscious trade- quacy made him lean hard on the Al- mighty Arm. The minister who can go into the pulpit without a tremor- rant heart, not to go at all. The trans- cendent importance of delivering a message from the word, whether as preacher or layman, ought to fill the soul with awe. How gentle Jeho- vah was with his timorous servant! He neither broke nor quenched him, but gave him sign after sign. The end crowns the work. The instruments may be contemptible, artists bring some lovely music out of sleighbells and tumbblers. Who was that violinist who held an audience entranced with one string of his violin when the others snap- ped? It matters very little how in- significant we are considered, if we only succeed. The pessimists must needs be excused from the moral contests of the day. Gideon had to let twenty-two thousand of cheerful, confident soldiers inspire his fellows to victory. Little things are often indices of character. The cowardly, self-loving souls, who unobscure their belts, and put themselves into comfortable positions to refresh themselves, will never reach the scene of action. Those dauntless spirits, eager for the fray, who scoop up a painful as they ford the stream, belong to the immortal three hundred. . . . After the fray the Ephraimites showed a ridiculous- ly jealous spirit by asking why they were not invited in at the beginning. "After the exploit's done, cowards valiant." Gideon displayed again his tact and inventive genius. He turns fact and invective into a soft answer. Scott aptly remarks: "In those things which pertain to the truth, authority and glory of God, Chris- tians should be unmoved as the sturdy oak; but in little concerns of their own interest or reputation they should resemble the pliant willow yields to every gust." . . . Gideon's name is deep cut on that tower- ing obelisk to the heroes of faith, the eleventh chapter of Hebrews.

Favorite Characters of the Bible and Why.

The Bible is essentially a book of biography. It is incredibly the space heroics and heronism whence they came— their parentage, the training light upon their careers; the illustra- tions of childhood and after life, incidents of character, the course of achievement. The Book of God is really a Book of Man. A moment's reflection, however, justifies this unique construction of the Bible. "Actions speak louder than words" and "Example is better than precept." The Bible is a book of working models, constructed with infinite and divine skill. The vicious are for warning and avoidance. The virtu- alous are for imitation. What a galaxy! Named at random—Abraham, Jacob, Ruth, Martha and Mary of Bethany, Daniel, Peter, Joshua, Jonathan, and over against this shining roster those somber and forbidding names—Cain, Lot, Achan, Saul, Jezebel, Pharaoh, Judah! No other book in literature contains such an assemblage eminent for goodness or badness. Shake spears alone approaches it.
